

Competence cell of CESIE's Higher Education and Research Unit

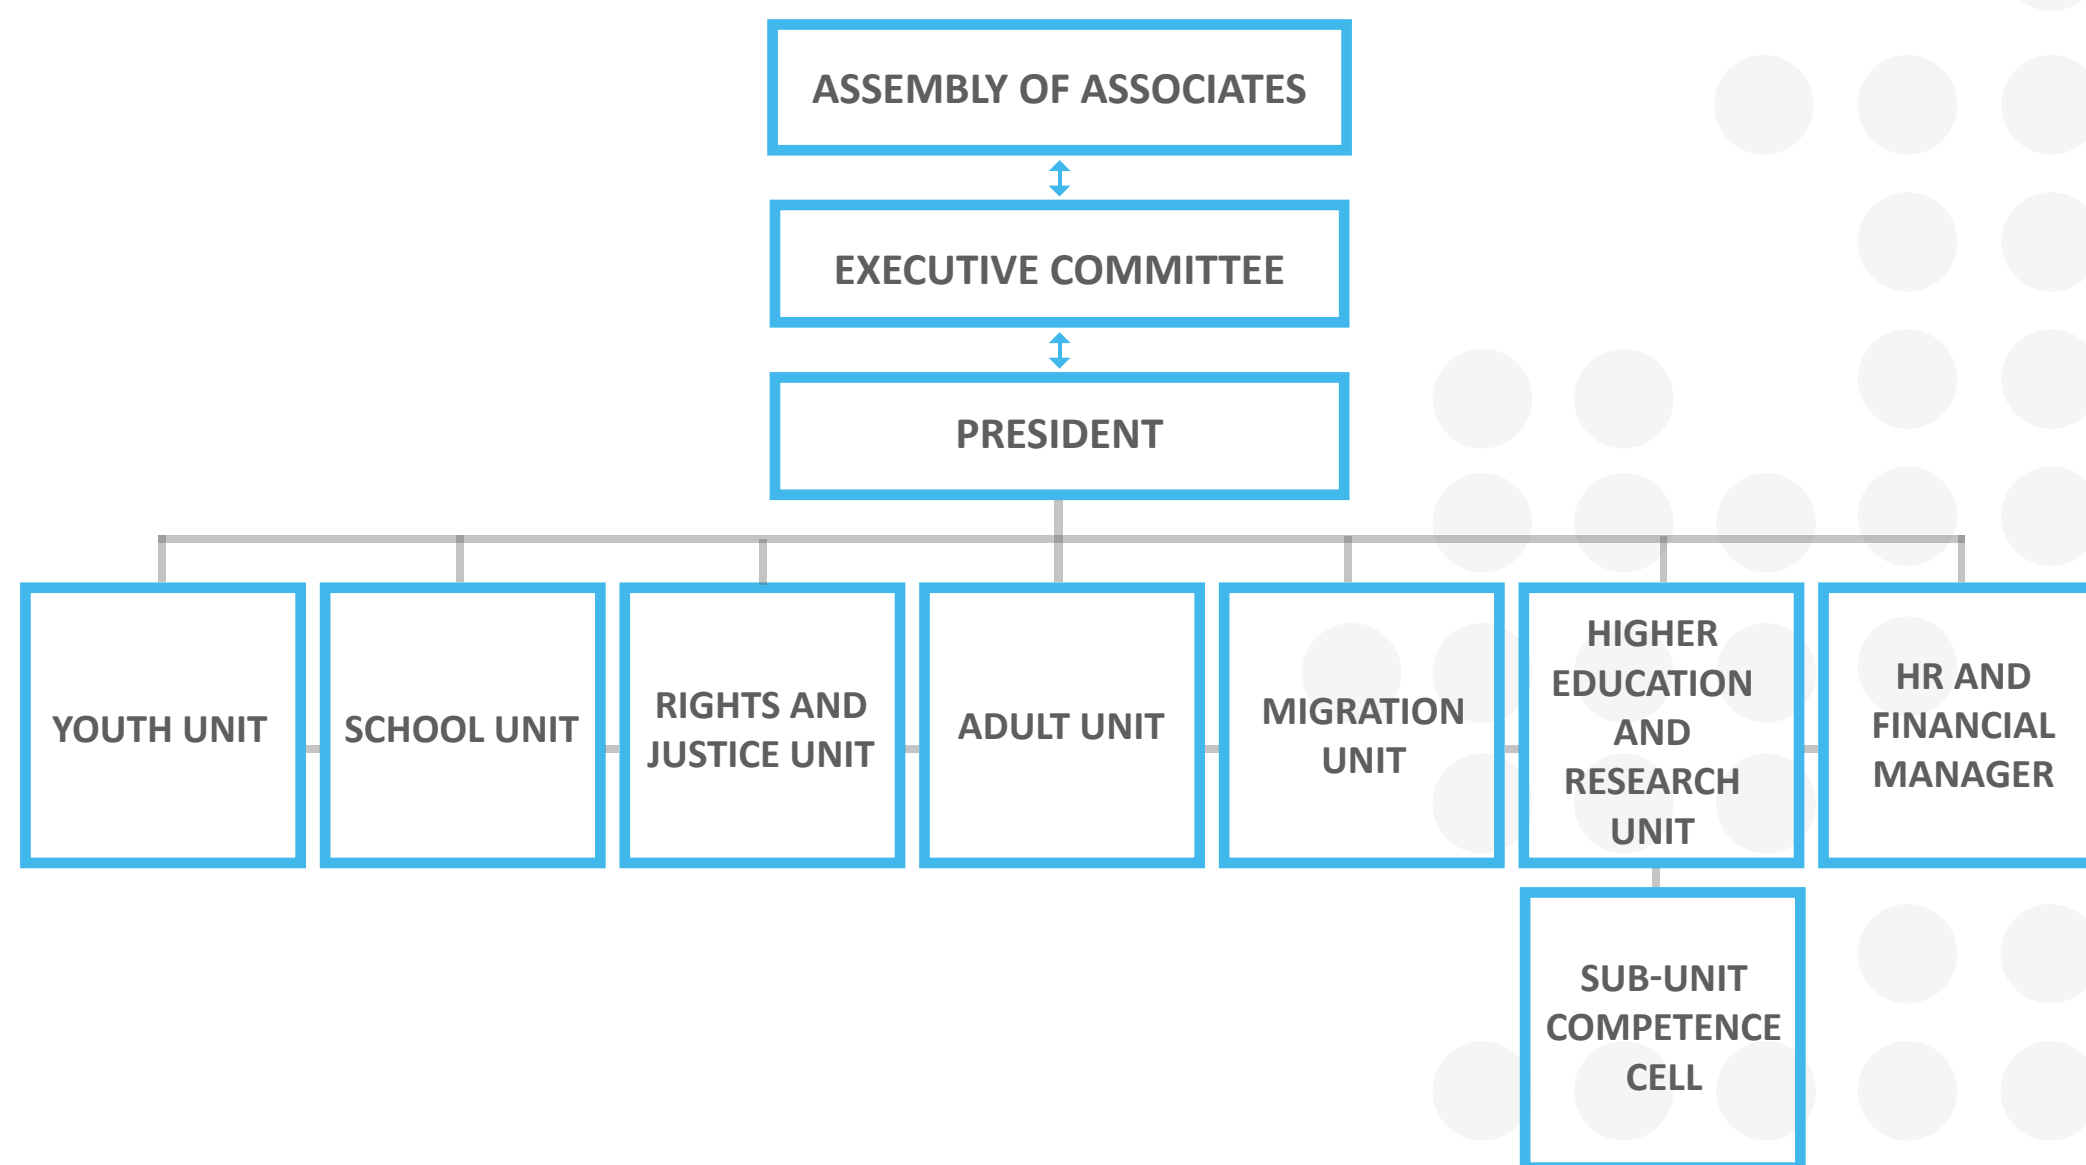

Mission and objectives:

◆ Competence cell of CESIE's Higher Education and Research Unit

Objectives:

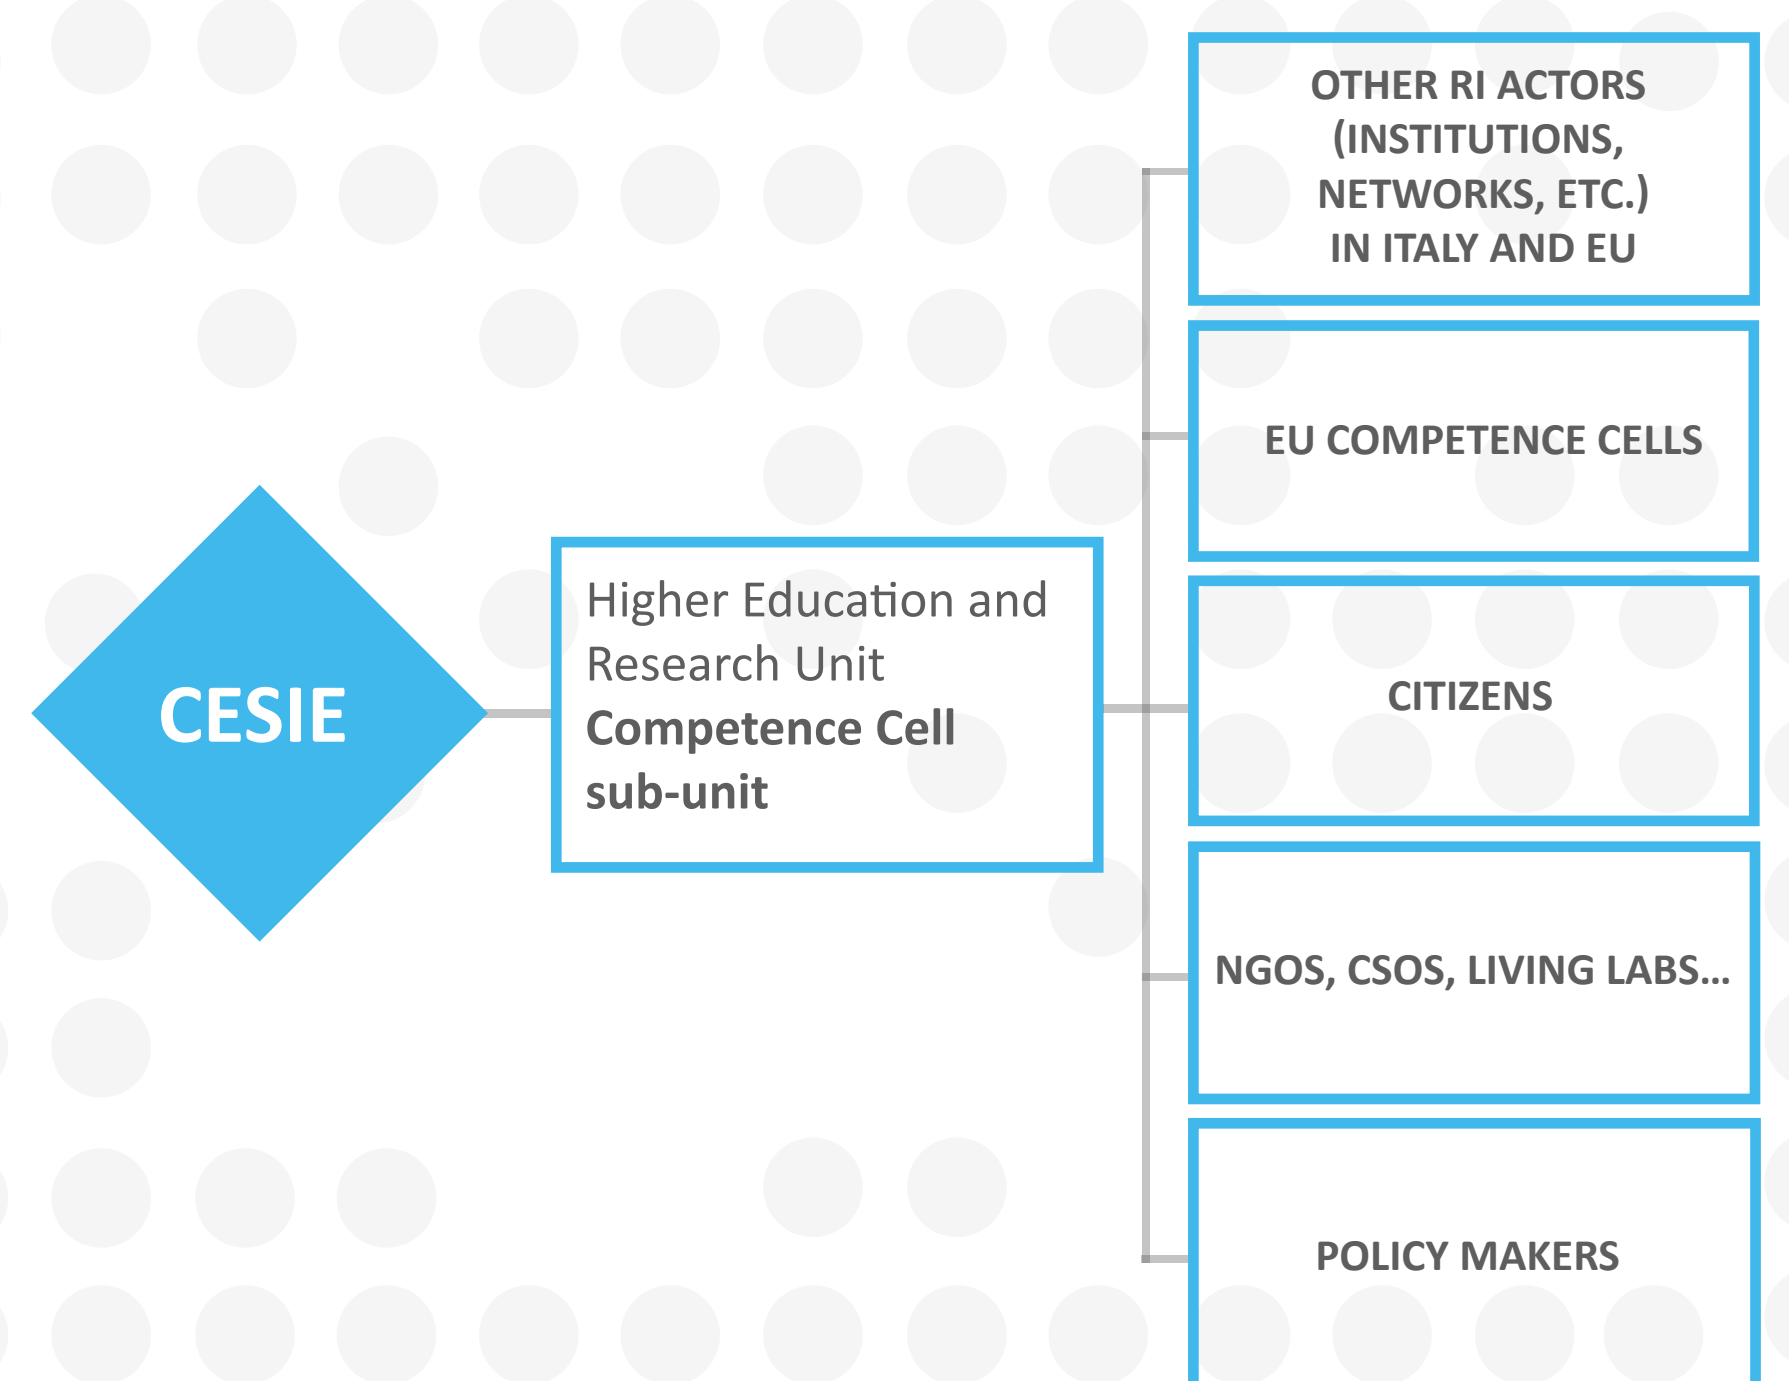

- ◆ To create strong local networks of actors from the quadruple helix for systemic co-creation, promotion and test of co-RRR practises on and for local territories
- ◆ To co-create solutions for SDGs and adapt practices and solutions for each level (local, national, international)
- ◆ To foster science education for sustainable changes

Governance structure

Human Resources Office / Finance & Administration Office /
Project Design and Networking Office / Visibility & Communication Office

Network of partners

Internal drivers:

CESIE imagines the world as a pomegranate symbolising the 'fruitful' unity of people growing together under the same peel. Such pomegranate grows on all types of grounds becoming for us a symbol of prosperity and well-being. We wish our Competence cell can represent such pomegranate for the R&I system.

External drivers:

To protect the planet and ensure prosperity for all, territories should mobilise forces of different knowledge actors and co-create in dynamic, networked, multi-collaborative innovation ecosystems. All together they can work on understanding the risks and benefits of different policy actions and on promoting specific research agendas at country level for the SDGs.

Tips

- ◆ Democratisation of and transdisciplinarity in R&I system is a gate for activation on local knowledge actors for co-creation of sustainable solutions for the territory
- ◆ As co-creation is a long and engaging process, do not rush and plan carefully all the time and resources that you'll need
- ◆ If you want to create an impact, give a voice to your stakeholders and assist them in 'singing'

Pitfalls

No pitfall, CESIE's experience helps in set up of the Competence Cell.
